Ben Butler is more appreciated now than ever before. He is keeping still. General Briggs is at home. This will be a relief to Washington. The general has done nothing but talk since the new administration began. Wisconsin is needed to his help and can't be disturbed by it.

People who try to ride on the wings of prophecy always get left. Those who prophesied that there would be no fruit this summer and that the grain crops would be blighted early in the season, made themselves ridiculous as Vennor.

The Rev. Dr. De La Maly, the ex-greenback congressman, of Indiana, who made himself ridiculous by his visionary theories of paper money, is holding a revival at Denver for which he receives $25 a day. The people of Denver used to be considered very sharp, but it seems they are not.

Luckily there are no wars on hand or any serious dimensions. Russia and England have settled up satisfactorily. Kiel and the half-breeds have been squelched. The Apaches have packed up and gone into New Mexico, where other outlaws congregate. So the only war at all worth mentioning is that for office which is waged among democratic factions. But inasmuch as this is a sort of a Kilkenny cat fight, it is not a deplorable one.

The good effect of high license can be seen in the city of Milwaukee. The Evening Wisconsin says the total receipts for the season up to date amount to $392,000 for liquor licenses in that city, which answer the question as to whether high license is wise or not. The receipts last year were about $76,000, thus making a clear gain of $316,000. But the Wisconsin also notes the fact, which is the most important of all, that high license has cleared out some of the worst saloons in the city.

Milwaukee ranks first as a beer manufacturing city, and third among the pork-packing cities of the United States according to the weekly market review of the Cincinnati Price Current. The number of hogs packed last week by the eight leading packing cities is 170,000, the number for the same time last year being 160,000. From March 1 to June 10, Chicago has packed 1,033,000, Kansas City 285,000, and Milwaukee 93,000. Milwaukeeans are interested in the packing houses of Chicago and Kansas City to a very large extent.

The girls at Vassar college have made a good record this season. They have consumed 44,485 pounds of fresh meat since last June, 2,380 pounds of turkey, 3,895 pounds of fresh fish, 7 pounds of mackerel, 30,000 clams, about 100,000 quarts of milk, 14,000 pounds of butter, 22,000 pounds of sugar, 15,000 bananas, 16,000 oranges, 575 boxes of caramels, 400 boxes of sardines, 652 boxes of confections, 1,000 dozen cans of corn, 8,000 lemons, 2,000 pounds of lard, 3,000 pounds of coffee, 91 pounds of maple sugar, 40 bushels of onions, 12 gallons of horse radish, 71 bushels of salt, but no account is given of the gum consumed.

One of the biggest fools of which any account has been given this season, lives in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, and is a merchant. One of his rivals offered him a stock of jerseys, the other day at seventy-five cents apiece. The other, not to be beaten, put his price at sixty-five. The prices ran down to fifty cents. In the course of a day or two, the jerseys fell to fifteen cents, and finally the market broke into a panic, and the prices touched bottom rock at one cent each. But the fellow who began the competition soon learned how big a fool he had made of himself, as it didn't take him long to see that his competitor had bought all his jerseys at the prices ranging from fifteen to one cent each! A man who tries hard to impress the public with the idea that he is especially wise and very smart, will nineteen times out of twenty, pay dearly for his conceit.

Speaking of England, one writer termed it "a power which has dotted the surface of the whole globe with her possessions and military posts, whose morning drum-beat, following the sun and keeping company with the hours, circles the earth with one continuous and unbroken strain of martial air of England." The resignation of Gladstone and his cabinet brings to mind the vast extent of the empire over which rules the empire-minded and motherly queen. Here is the area of her majesty's possessions:

Great Britain and Ireland	Square miles
Great Britain and Ireland	93,646
India	1,900,000
Other Eastern possessions	800,000
Canada	3,500,000
North America	3,250,000
Guiana, etc.	300,000
Africa	200,000
West India possessions	120,000
Various settlements	6,171
Total	8,922,617

When it is considered that the entire surface of the globe is 108,000,000 square miles, of which nearly three-quarters is water, it will be seen that the British empire embraces nearly one-sixth of the globe, having a population of 310,000,000.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
The churches are becoming greatly interested in the question of a reform in the manner of marriages as well as in the loose system of granting divorces. It is a credit to the better part of the judiciary of this country, that it strongly favors a radical change in the methods of hearing divorce cases, especially in that class of applications which are not supported by sufficient testimony.

An effort is being made by Bishop Howe, of the Episcopal diocese of Central Pennsylvania, to revive the old custom of publishing the banns of marriage in church on three successive Sundays. His argument in this, and it is founded on very substantial grounds, that many persons marry who are either too young to properly enter such a relationship, or are morally disbarred from appreciating the sanctity of the home, or the sacredness of the conjugal state. These hasty marriages lead to nearly one-fourth of the divorces in some of the states, and therefore the bishop's suggestion is well made.

Other denominations have expressed their willingness to revive the custom of publishing the banns of marriage, but there does not seem to be a popular sentiment sufficiently strong in its favor, to secure its general adoption. It is easy marriages and quick divorces could be properly checked, the influence would be a blessing to the morals of the country.

VILAS'S LAST LETTER.
Postmaster General Vilas has written a letter to the Hon. A. L. Smith, of Appleton, in regard to the change of postmaster in that city. Mr. A. J. Reid, proprietor and one of the editors of the Daily Post, has been postmaster for some time, and an effort is being made to remove him on the ground that he is an offensive partisan. The candidate for the office is Mr. James Ryan, the editor of the Crescent, a democratic paper. He is the unanimous choice of the democracy of Appleton, and as a democrat he is regarded as no honorable representative.

But to the surprise of the democrats and to the utter disgust of Mr. Ryan who has labored hard and valiantly for the success of the democracy, Colonel Vilas writes a letter in which he says that Mr. Ryan cannot have the appointment under any circumstances whatever, because he is the publisher of a partisan democratic newspaper—that the administration is daily removing republicans because of their connection with partisan republican sheets, and he and the president will not knowingly appoint a man to a postoffice who is connected with a partisan newspaper.

Great Caesar, what consistency! The administration has appointed to office some of the worst politicians this country has produced, not only enemies to the government during the war, but men of low motives and bad methods—partisans of the most offensive sort—and yet will refuse to appoint to office a democrat who is a gentleman and in all things worthy, simply because he edits a democratic paper. O, democratic consistency, thou art a humbug!

A SCHEME THAT WON'T WORK.
Colonel George W. Bird wants to be chairman of the democratic state committee. He would like to have the place because he thinks he can not only make himself a little more prominent in state politics, but he fancies that he can marshal the democratic forces to success a year from the coming fall. Several very excellent democrats of Wisconsin have been afflicted with the same disease that Colonel Bird has, and each one of them tried hard to do what the colonel is very anxious to do, and alas! they tumbled into the pit with their party when routed by the republicans.

But there is one thing connected with Colonel Bird's strife for the position of chairman of the democratic state committee which makes him ridiculous. He proposes to crystallize the democratic party around the principle of low license. He has already said that the legislature must be captured that the license law of last winter may be repealed. He calls it a hasty and ill-considered piece of work, and thinks it will strengthen the democratic party by declaring for low whiskey. The Milwaukee Catholic Citizen, a democratic paper, makes commendable haste in putting its foot down on Colonel Bird's scheme, and protests against being driven into a corner of that kind. In the last number of that paper we find the following editorial paragraph:

We democrats are to fall into line under the redoubtable Col. Bird, for the purpose of smashing down the high-license force that the republican legislature has put up. That is the program of the party managers. We are expected to the phraseology of the valiant colonel, "to stand up to the work."

There is to be an open bid for the votes of the half-forgotten. The low license standard is to be raised, and Bird-like voices are to echo the cry: "Capture the legislature and lower the license." Obviously our votes are considered as good as delivered on this issue. In the eyes of the party managers we feel on the subject by this managers. Those of us who have ventured to seem satisfied with the work of the republican legislature in raising the license, are apparently expected to eat our principles. The program of Col. Bird is very nice, indeed—it works.

If the democrats in party of Wisconsin expect to capture the legislature on the cry of low license, they will come out of the contest in 1886 with deeper disappointment than in any campaign for years. The people of Wisconsin can't be induced under the leadership of Colonel Bird, or any other man, to enter into a war for cheap liquor license. They will not stultify themselves in that manner or commit a crime against the moral sentiment of the state.

There Is Trouble in Store.
For those who neglect to rectify irritations of the stomach, liver and bowels, which they foolishly imagine will "come right of themselves." Of this silly error such persons are usually the victims. The development of some chronic malady, traceable to what they were pleased to consider a trifling disorder of the above named associate organs. Such a culmination is easily avoided. A course of Dr. Cassell's Kidney and Bladder Pills has the effect of removing the secret action of a torpid liver, restoring healthy digestion and assimilation, and restoring the habit of body perfectly regular. The activity of these all important functions being restored, and the entire system toned and regulated by this incomparable corrective and invigorant, no danger to the general health is to be apprehended from cases which, if not eradicated in time, will assuredly undermine it.

WITH GREAT ALACRITY VICTORIA ACCEPTS THE PROPOSED CHANGE OF MINISTRY.

Gladstone Makes the Final Announcement of His Resignation—Salisbury Called to Take Hold—Thurston for the New Cabinet.

LONDON, June 12.—The scenes in the house of commons Friday night when Mr. Gladstone announced the retirement of his ministry were the most extraordinary that have been witnessed in St. Stephen's hall for many years. The attendance and the excitement have not been equalled for a generation. Every foot of sitting and standing room was crowded, and some of the members suddenly developed abnormal traits that would have delighted Darwin—climbing into high places like boys swarming upon lamp posts to witness a street show. The crowd in the house overflowed into the palace yard and the whole Westminster district was filled with excited groups of men of all parties, who cheered or booed every notable member according to his politics. The cheering reached its climax when Mr. Gladstone made his appearance in the house. Not a few of the Conservative members joined in the applause, being apparently carried away by the infectious enthusiasm of the moment, and the voters seemed to be too busy to be angry. The applause seemed to be very grateful to the retiring premier, and he deliberately bowed to the right and to the left, the greater volume of applause coming from those who had followed him to come from this or that direction. When he spoke at last it was to make the announcement plainly and unequivocally that the queen had telegraphed her acceptance of his resignation, and that those of his colleagues in the cabinet who had accepted of his resignation, were to be summoned to the palace to form a new ministry. The premier was pale and hoarse, but he spoke firmly and with a more cheerful air than he has had at any time since Monday. His friends say that he is feeling remarkably well, that the ending of the suspense by the queen's acceptance of his resignation has had a wonderfully salutary and tonic effect, and that after a short rest at Havardun castle he will again show the wonderful ability as a leader of the opposition.

The Daily News says that Mr. Gladstone's resignation of office by no means implies his retirement from the Liberal leadership. Sunday morning's papers have very little to say in regard to the political events of Friday, the result having been anticipated and comments thereon already published. The apparent alacrity with which the queen accepted Mr. Gladstone's resignation is made the subject of general and careful comment. His resignation was received by her majesty in the evening and its acceptance was telegraphed on the following morning.

The Times insists that Mr. Gladstone should not have resigned. There was no good reason why he should do so, and it is inconceivable why he should have felt impelled to take such a step merely because of the trial and tribulation and altogether unfair act of the Tory party.

The Standard thinks that in the new ministry the Earl of Carnarvon will be foreign secretary, Sir Alcock Hicks-Baugh security for war, and William Henry Smith first lord of the admiralty. It is also said that Lord Randolph Churchill will be offered a high post, but that it is not likely to be that of secretary for Ireland. Sir Stafford Northcote is the only person spoken of for chancellor of the exchequer.

Now that it has become apparent by the departure of the Marquis of Salisbury for Balmoral that the Tories will assume the reins of government, the Parliament members of parliament have begun conferring with leading Conservatives with regard to the government of Ireland. Mr. Parnell and his followers strongly urge the Tories to adopt the home-rule measure for Ireland, stating that the advocacy of such a step by the Conservatives would completely sink the Liberals.

The report to the effect that the marquis of Salisbury had been summoned by the queen to form a new cabinet, and that he left Thursday night for the castle, was true. The marquis started secretly at midnight for Balmoral, and had arrived at 5 o'clock. Telegrams from all the principal points along the route, stated that the journey was made through a continued series of popular receptions on all that part of the way which lies through Scotland.

Level Nursed His Revenge.
New York, June 12.—As Michael Wetzel, of 101 East Fourteenth street, was passing along Tompkins park, on his way to work, Friday morning, a man lying in wait for him sprang from his ambush and threw a quantity of sulphuric acid into his face. The acid fell to the ground, and his screams soon drew a crowd of people. His face and eyes were terribly burned. His assailant was arrested, and gave his name as Matthew Level, 49 years of age, of 109 Mulberry street. He had been assaulted some time ago with a cart run by Wetzel, and he had nearly lost an eye and three of his teeth were broken. Subsequently his left arm became paralyzed. Wetzel at that time was held in $1,000 bail and was never brought to the scene. Level says he has nursed his revenge.

Knocked Him Down and Stomped on Him.
New Orleans, June 12.—Ten days ago R. T. Denis, a lawyer, made statements to Judge Monroe's court which his honor said were false, and announced that nothing but a court of twenty-five years, and any weight, or stout with any consideration unless backed by affidavit. Shortly after noon Friday Denis met Judge Monroe, who is a cripple, and attempted to cow him. The judge knocked Denis into the gutter and stomped upon him until the spectators dragged him off. Denis was badly punished.

Lowes Way of Doing Bank Business.
New York, June 12.—George I. Lowes, in testifying Friday in the suit of the receiver of the Atlantic National Bank of Brooklyn against the Metropolitan Bank said that he was $100,000 worth of paper annually discounted at the Metropolitan bank and exercised his judgment on most of the loans. It was customary at times for banks to make loans without taking notes. This practice was not unusual as late as 1858 and 1859.

The selections were from Beethoven, Schubert, Rive-King, Taleroy, Clementi and others.

—The social given by the young people of Court Street M. E. church, was well attended and was in every way a complete success. The rooms were beautifully decorated, the doorway hung with Chinese lanterns, and whether there had anything to do with the appetite for ice cream, or not, there certainly was a great demand for refreshments, making the supplies of ice cream and strawberries melt away like the snow in spring. All present passed a very enjoyable evening and when the time came to disperse everyone agreed that the social had been one of the most pleasant of the season.

—Dr. John Bascom, president of the State university, visited our high school on Thursday last, to look it over with reference to accrediting it to the State university. He expressed himself pleased with the character of the school, and in the next annual catalogue of the university our school will appear under the head of "general science course" or "modern classical." The introduction of the German will be necessary to give our high school the advantage of the latter. When accredited, the pupils from our high school will be admitted to the university without examination in the departments named.

THE TREACHEROUS LAKE.

—An interesting exhibition will be given to-night that will be moral, instructive and beneficial. The wonderful workings of electricity is in its infancy. Science teaches us that the duration of the electric spark is one-sixteenth millionth part of a second. The great electric clock illustrates what a great motor electricity is. All those who wish to keep pace with modern times are respectfully invited to attend the exhibition of the great electric clock to-night. Ladies and children especially invited. Doors open at 7 o'clock. Admission ten cents. Myers house block, Milwaukee street, open days only.

—Miss Nellie A. Witche, of Brockton, Massachusetts, who came to Janesville last fall, in the hope that a change of climate would benefit her health, and who has since made her home with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ford, No. 10 Madison street, first ward, died at 12:30 o'clock this morning, aged 47 years. The deceased had been an invalid for the past three or four years, and had many friends and relatives in Boston, Mass., and Bangor, Maine. The funeral will be held at the residence of Mr. Ford, No. 10 Madison street, at 3:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, the Rev. A. J. VanWagoner, of the Congregational church, conducting the services.

—The Chicago Flower Mission is doing a grand work among the hospitals, asylums and missions in the Garden City. Bouquets, baskets of cut flowers, books, pictures, scrap books and other articles too numerous to mention, have been distributed among the different Cook county institutions, and much good has been done by this means. The list of contributors include many persons from Janesville, but there are many more who could very easily help the mission along, and to all such, a most urgent invitation is extended. Further particulars may be obtained from Walter Helms, of this city, who will also be glad to receive any contributions of flowers, fruit, books, or anything else which would be acceptable to the invalids within the scope of the society.

—The old residents of Janesville are never more delighted than when engaged in showing visitors from abroad the beautiful drives and pleasant surroundings of the Lower City. A gentleman from the fourth ward was engaged in this pleasant pastime last evening, and the party of friends from the south, for whom he was acting as escort, were very much pleased with the scenery, and particularly admired the drives and hard roads which impressed them as so much superior to the swamp and corduroy roads of their native state. The escort was not at all backward in saying a good word for the boulevards and in the midst of a burst of eloquence about our rolling prairie country the wheels of the top heavy vehicle became entangled in a rut and the whole party alighted on short notice. An inventory resulted in bringing to light the fact that no bones were broken although one of the visitors is kept busy to-day explaining to new made acquaintances that the bridge of his nose is a little ruffled on account of the indifferent driving of his friend.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Its Significance in the Methodist Episcopal Churches of the United States.

Children's day was organized in the Methodist Episcopal church by a general conference committee in 1853, its first observance occurred in 1863, just one hundred years after the introduction of Methodism in the United States.

The discipline of the M. E. church contains the following rule: "It is recommended that the second Sunday in June be everywhere observed as 'children's day' and that wherever practical a collection be taken in aid of the Sunday school fund of the board of education." This fund is intended to help indigent but worthy young men and women of our Sunday schools to secure a higher education.

From a small beginning children's day has developed, until the anniversary day which occurs to-morrow will be generally observed by the Methodist churches throughout the land. In our own city, at Court Street church, a children's sermon will be preached in the morning, and the Sunday school hour will be devoted to a children's service, made more attractive by floral decorations.

Appropriate exercises will also be held at the First M. E. church. Children's day with many of its pleasant and sacred usages, has won its way into the hearts of other religious denominations, who observe the day with fitting services.

At the glad June Sabbath, radiant with blossom and bright sunshine, can be given to the children of the land in a service of song and thanksgiving, the mission of the day will inscribe a record worthy of a place in our list of national anniversaries.

THE ANGRY WAVES OF LAKE KOSHONG CAPSIZE A BOAT.

In Which a Party of Two Ladies and One Gentleman Were Fishing.

One Lady, Mrs. S. J. Humphrey, Drowned. The Other Float Around in the Lake All Night.

And Finally Land in Glasgow's Point.

News reached this city at eleven o'clock this forenoon of the drowning of Mrs. S. J. Humphrey, of Edgerton, which sad event took place in Lake Koshong, off Carr's point, shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Parties arriving from Edgerton this afternoon, furnish the following particulars of the sad accident:

At four o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. John T. Toynton, Mrs. S. J. Humphrey, and a young lady, a niece of Mrs. Humphrey, whose name we did not learn, left Carr's point in a small boat, for the purpose of fishing in the lake. There was quite a strong wind at the time, and the lake was a little rough, but the party paid no attention to it, and struck out for the river channel. After being out about half an hour a squall struck and capsized their boat, throwing all three into the water. The boat immediately went down, and Mrs. Toynton struggled hard to save his lady friends both of whom were holding to him. The boat soon raised to the surface, and Mr. Toynton succeeded in getting one of the ladies into it but before he could thus reach the boat, Mrs. Humphrey was drowned and sank in the lake at the place where the accident occurred. He and the young lady now put forth every effort to save themselves and draw assistance from the shore. They held fast to the capsized boat, and floated around in the lake until two o'clock this morning, when the angry waves washed them ashore at Glasgow's point, several miles distant and on the opposite side of the lake from where the accident occurred. Mr. Bingham's people cared for the unfortunate until this morning, when they took them back across the lake and to Edgerton, their home. The news of this sad drowning soon spread through the little city, and hundreds went down to the lake, employing every available boat, to recover the body of the drowned woman, but up to the hour of going to press they had not succeeded. Parties came to this city for ropes and grappling hooks, in order to drag the lake in that vicinity.

Mrs. Humphrey had been twice married, and leaves a son by her first husband, who is some seventeen years of age, and her husband to mourn her sad end. We understand that Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey were engaged in Edgerton in keeping a restaurant and bakery.

But a few weeks ago the son met with an accident by which his hand was torn to pieces by the explosion of a shell, which he was carelessly handling.

DIVORCE CASE.

Judge Bennett granted two divorces this morning, one to D. A. Richards, of Lima, from his wife, Mary J. for desertion, and the other to George Stevenson, of Cookville, from Mary Ann Stevenson.

The plaintiff in the latter case is a bright and good looking young man, who came from England to America some two years ago, leaving his wife with whom he had lived happily three years, behind, until he should have a home here for her to come to. They corresponded regularly and all was well, apparently, until a year after his arrival here, he sent her a passage ticket, and told her to come and join him. She replied that she had found another man, whom she considered himself free to marry now that he was away, and he might consider himself free also. This was in March, 1884. A short time ago she came to America and to Cookville, where she has relatives, with a man named Cross, and a baby some eight months old. She and Cross had been married in England, and say they thought their marriage legal. On being convinced of the contrary, they separated to await the issue of the divorce proceedings which the deserted husband had at once instituted on their arrival here. Cross and Mrs. Stevenson will doubtless now be married, which will straighten out the status of the parties to this curious case.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

An Enthusiastic Meeting of Citizens Endorse the Action of the Preliminary Committee.

Jonh M. Whitehead, Esq., secured as the Orator, and Morris M. Bostwick the Reader of the Declaration.

All the Reports of the Committee Duly Ratified.

The meeting of citizens at the council chamber last evening, called to consider the report of the committee appointed to arrange a plan for the proper celebration of the Fourth of July, was an enthusiastic gathering of the patriotic people of this city, all unanimous in the one voice—that of sustaining every resource to eclipse all former celebrations in this city. Dr. Henry Palmer being absent, Mr. I. C. Brownell was called to the chair, and Mr. O. H. Brand occupied the secretary's table.

Captain F. W. Norcross, of the committee on invitation and reception, reported that that committee held a meeting, and that they extended an invitation to John M. Whitehead, Esq., to deliver the oration, and to Morris M. Bostwick, Esq., to read the Declaration of Independence, both gentlemen having accepted the invitation. Captain Norcross also stated that perhaps a recitation might properly be put upon the programme. The report was adopted.

On motion the reports of the various sub-committees, made at the meeting of the general committee held on Wednesday evening, were adopted.

The various committees were then instructed to proceed as rapidly as possible, and prepare for a celebration on a grander scale than was ever before attempted in Janesville.

Mr. John Thoroughgood, of the finance committee, stated that the committee were about to commence operations, and trusted that the citizens would give liberally that sufficient funds might be readily secured to carry out the plans of the several committees.

The meeting then indulged in a little informal talk, concerning the little details of the celebration, when it was manifest that there was but one sentiment, and that was for a grand patriotic time in this city on the fourth of July. The meeting adjourned in full harmony, believing that the committee of arrangements would omit nothing that would in the least detract from this sentiment. A more harmonious meeting never assembled in the council chamber.
